GERMANS HAVE MEAT
ONCE IN TWO WEEKS

W. J. Shepherd Says It Is Served Only on the Special Occasions.

MUST WAIT IN LINE

Reported "Food Riots" Are Only Quarrels at the Butcher Shop.

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
ROTTERDAM, May 27 (by mail).—Many families in Germany go meatless for days and weeks at a time. This I have from a neutral business man of Dresden.

"It's as bad as housekeeping to get meat. It upsets our whole household economy as well as our financial economy. It's a dreadful operation and we don't go through it oftener than we have to. In the last sixteen days we have had meat twice.

"Fish, new asparagus, just in the market, potatoes, spinach and dry, crumbling bread made largely of potato flour, make up our list of edibles. We get so tired of it we hate to go to the table. Sometimes we even get so tired of it we decide we'll have meat. Then there's trouble."

The speaker was requested to go in to the details of a meat purchase in a German town.

Cigars Get to Berlin.

"Well, it's like this," he said, lighting a good cigar; (in some mysterious way a huge shipment of Havana cigars direct from Cuba reached Berlin the other day). "When we decide to have meat my wife and I talk it over the night before. If the next day is Tuesday or Friday we can't buy anything but fish, for those are meatless days.

"My wife calls our maid and says: 'Elizabeth, we want you to buy a beefsteak for us tomorrow.' Elizabeth frowns and goes out.

"This means that Elizabeth must get up at 4 o'clock the next morning and go to the nearest butcher shop and stand in line until her turn comes to buy meat or until the butcher comes to the door and says to the waiting line: 'I'm all sold out of meat.'

"It is always a four or five-hour job for her, unless she wants to get into the queue at 1 o'clock in the morning, as some maids do.

"When my wife and I get up Elizabeth is down at the butcher shop and so I have to make the fires while my wife gets breakfast. I go off to the office and Elizabeth comes home at 8 or 9 o'clock, 'sore' on the whole world.

"Sometimes she has been able to get meat, but more often than not she comes back empty handed.

"Officially there are only two meatless days a week, but in reality you find the butcher shops meatless day after day.

Meat Makes Happiness.

"I call up my wife some time during the morning to find out whether we are going to have meat for supper. If she says we are, I'm happy all day. You'd be surprised to know how much difference a little meat makes."

"How much would Elizabeth pay for a beefsteak?"

"Five marks and a half for a pound.

"How we linger over supper when we have meat! Elizabeth hasn't done any work all day. She has been upset by her morning experience.

"You read of food riots in Berlin. That was only Elizabeth and her fellow-maid fighting to keep their places in the line.

Might Lose a Maid.

"But about supper time Elizabeth wakes up, cooks the meat and brings it in with smiles all over her face. She knows she'll get her share. But if we asked her to go out for meat every meat day, she wouldn't stay with us.

"That's where the rich folks come in. They can hire maids who have no other work but to go through the meat raid daily.

"There are injustices galore about the food distribution in Berlin. That is why they have had food riots in front of the Reichstag and in front of butcher shops."

NEW YORK'S 400 PREPARE TO RALLY TO THE COLORS

By United Press.

POMPTON LAKE, N. J., June 23.—Thirty young women of New York society started home here today after three weeks of learning the ins and outs of soldiering, so that in time of need they may be a help to their country. They were under the command of Miss Candace Hewitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Hewitt, and were instructed by directors supervised by General E. Z. Steever, U. S. A., retired.

The Emergency Service Corps is the official title of Captain Hewitt's girls, and in their three weeks' camp they covered a course of intensive instruction, embracing everything from messenger service to cooking and from peeling potatoes to bareback riding.

Miss Hewitt and her sister, Miss Luck Hewitt, were the organizers of the camp. They took their idea before a committee of prominent men and women and after careful study the training course was worked out. The committee includes Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. Edward R. Hewitt, Mrs. Ever it Macy, Miss Elizabeth Lowndes of Rosemary Hall, Miss Spence, Henry L. Stimson, General Charles Roe, U. S. A., retired, Lieutenant-Colonel William F. Schaffner, surgeon general, N. G. N. J., and Henry B. Sedgwick.

The purposes of the corps are to lead girls who have had opportunities in life to recognize their responsibilities. The course included making camp, cooking, riding, swimming, first aid and sanitation. Lectures will be given in military law so that the girls may realize fully in what relation they will stand to their own and to enemy troops in time of war.

Miss Hewitt laid down a list of equipment with which each young woman must provide herself. This included two pairs of waterproof shoes, three pairs of thick stockings, shirts, one campaign hat, one pair of sneakers, three changes of underclothing, one set of waist garters, one pair of leather puttees, three olive drab shirts, one campaign hat, one pair of service gauntlets, one belt, two red ties, one uniform coat, two pairs of uniform breeches, one slicker, two pairs of pajamas, one sweater coat and one bathing suit. Skirts were taboo.

The girls learned how to wig-wag with the general service code and semaphore code and the mysteries of lighting beacon fires and making signal smokes.

Poor health is expensive?

DOG KEEPS VIGIL OVER GRAVE

Every Night for 5 Years Animal Has Guarded Mound of Dead Man.

By United Press.

FULTONHAM, Ohio, June 23.—In the cemetery here a homeless cur mourns on the grave of George Baker. They call her "The Graveyard Dog."

Five years ago the dog came to the cemetery, following the funeral procession of Baker, an aged farmer, who died at his home near here.

Every night the dog keeps a close vigil over the grave. She sleeps for hours at a stretch during the day on the little mound that marks Baker's resting place.

Villagers long ago gave up hope of coaxing the dog away. She leaves the cemetery only long enough each day to search for food.

Friends of Baker say he never owned the dog. Cemetery trustees refuse to drive her away.

100,000 TO GET PAY INCREASE

Boost in Wages of Cleveland Workers Will Total $15,000,000.

By United Press.

CLEVELAND, June 23.—Wage increases affecting 100,000 workers here and totaling $15,000,000 annually have been, or will be, granted before July 1, according to figures compiled by John Owens, Cleveland Federation of Labor secretary.

Owens estimates that half the men and women working here, numbering 200,000, will benefit in wage boosts, at an average of not less than 50 cents a day each.

Common labor, which has advanced from $2 to $2.50, is scarce at the latter figure. A quarry strike at a nearby town affected 500 men who asked that their pay be raised to $2.50. Before the quarry could settle it, Clevelanders had hired all the strikers at their own prices.

Many thousands of workers here already have been granted more pay, including 10,000 steel workers. Agreements have been signed affecting

INJUNCTION DENIED AT LIBERTY
Liquor Ruling There Differs From the One Made Here.

LIBERTY, Mo., June 23.—In an opinion of more than 12,000 words, written by Circuit Judge Frank P. Divilbiss, an injunction to restrain common carriers from delivering intoxicating liquors into dry territory was denied here yesterday.

The opinion, which differs from the findings of several other circuit judges in Missouri who have heard similar cases, makes no defense of the traffic, cites authorities to show that the selling of intoxicating liquor in local option counties is illegal, says the selling is a crime, and that the equity court should not be invoked when the violators of the law may be punished for the commission of a crime and the traffic effectually stopped.

Judge Divilbiss says in regard to the charge that many carriers are knowingly delivering intoxicants to bootleggers, that it is the duty of the state to punish the bootleggers.

The judge also cites many established points of law, the first of which is that the courts of equity have no power to enjoin the commission of a crime. He then shows that every act of keeping, delivering, or storing liquors in dry territory, is presumptively unlawful, and that the burden would be on the defendant to show that it was delivered for a lawful purpose. He says it is established that the common carrier shall make due effort to ascertain the purpose for which it is being shipped into the county, and if it makes a mistake it will have to bear the burden of it.

Judge Divilbiss also cites that a common carrier may be compelled to accept consignments of liquor to dry territory if the same is intended for lawful purposes, no matter whether the shipment be interstate or intrastate.

This movement is being supported by the various cement companies. The companies will pay all expenses for those interested in this work.

Bennett Clark May Go to Border.

Bennett Clark of Washington, D. C., is visiting friends in Columbia. He is a former student in the University and a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. Mr. Clark belongs to a volunteer cavalry troop in Washington. So far he has received no news of the enlistment of the troop, although it is probable. Upon his return to Washington, he will know whether the troop will go to the front.

JUST LIKE A PLAY, BUT REAL

Student, Trying to Flirt, Finds a Cousin in He Had Never Seen.

A little one-act comedy, which looked as if it might be the latest revised edition of the photoplay, "He Fell in Love With His Wife," was staged the other evening in one of the University buildings. The audience was limited.

The play opened with a young man, a regular student who was compelled to linger on the campus during the Summer Session, loitering in the lobby. A young woman entered the building, and the young man decided to flirt. Having had little experience, he walked past her and looked his best. The young woman apparently did not see his big smile.

The young woman's mind was occupied with more concrete thoughts. Approaching the young man, she asked where a certain class recited. He told her the room number and admitted that he was in the class. She asked if he knew a nice-looking young fellow who was taking the course. He knew the man, for it was he.

The woman was his cousin, but he had never seen her before. Seeing his name in the directory, the young woman got a list of his classes and looked him up.
